The "Metropolitan Club Stuttgart - International Society e.V. " is a lively and active club with international members from all walks of life (especially but not limited to the ages 18-35). The club was founded not long after the Second World War "... to promote through cultural, educational and social activities the mutual contact and understanding among primarily young people of all nations, especially between Germans and Americans." The objective is to foster the idea of international understanding and the exchange of cultural values through activities mainly held in English language.

The club's purpose will also be accomplished by "providing the knowledge and understanding of the regional topography, culture and history to foreigners by means of lectures and excursions".

Activities: We have a wide range of social activities, cultural events and educational programs, most of which are led by our members, cost nothing or very little, are open to the general public and include: - Lectures and presentations on interesting topics; slide shows from trips (e.g. vacations) along with descriptions and impressions of the people, food, landscape, etc. ; informative descriptions of various historical, technical, musical, etc. topics; guest lecturers from university professors, writers, scientists, etc.; Visits to special locations and events

Bimonthly on the first Friday we have an INTERNATIONAL GET-TOGETHER. Here you can meet us and other interested active folks of different nations. Check our upcoming programs!
